

Local Sources of Information

Identifying Information Sources Every community has a variety of local information resources that may be helpful as you plan your volunteer driver program. You may want to consider the possibility of including volunteers to do some of the “leg work” in identifying additional sources of information, recruitment, and financial support.

Government Service Organizations

- Department of Transportation
- Department of Aging
- Area Agency on Aging
- Department of Parks and Recreation
- Department of Motor Vehicles

Transportation Organizations

- Automobile Clubs
- Taxi Companies
- Limousine Companies

Social Service Organizations

- Senior Centers
- Community Centers

Community Volunteer Groups

- Junior League
- Lion's Club
- Kiwanis Club

Older Adult Volunteer Groups

- Retired Senior Volunteer Program
- Interfaith Groups

Churches/Synagogues

Special Senior Housing

- Retirement Communities
- Assisted Living Facilities
- Nursing Homes

Medical Facilities

- Hospitals
- Clinics
- Health Care Practices
- Adult Day Services Programs

Businesses

- Shopping Malls
- Grocery Stores

Accessing Information Contact information for existing transportation options can be obtained from some obvious and not so obvious sources. The internet is filled with information on existing transportation services in your community. Some categories you might consider in your search include:

- Bus Transportation
- Charter Services
- Limousine Services
- Local Passenger Transportation
- Passenger Transport Arrangement
- Private Transportation
- Public Transportation
- Transportation Lines
- Transportation Companies
- Transportation Contract Service

- Ride Sharing Services
- Taxicabs
- Transportation–Handicapped & Elderly
- Transportation–Medical/Non-Emergency Special Needs Transit
- Medical Transportation
- Volunteer Transportation